WETASKIWIN IS BEING UNFAIRLY DEALT WITH

Those who heard the address of Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works for Alberta at the Board of Trade meeting on Monday evening could not help but be impressed with the sincerity of the minister. But at the same time, when he laid so much stress on the importance of looking after the tourist traffic, even to the extent of neglecting the upkeep of the branch roads throughout the province, it was felt that the government was not giving the people living in the rural communities the assistance they rightfully deserve.

It might be conservatively estimated that during the year 1927, the Alberta government collected at least $50,000 or $60,000 from the people of Wetaskiwin and surrounding district in automobile licenses and gasoline taxes, or during the past three years no less a sum than $150,000. This sum has been "ear-marked" for road construction and maintenance. Yet, notwithstanding this large sum, which has been extracted from the ratepayers of this community, the government declines to consider the small matter of graveling a couple of miles through the City of Wetaskiwin, thus linking up the gravelled highway north and south of the city. The government has taken large sums of money from the citizens and will give very little in return.

The Times has been informed that the contract for the alteration and construction of the proposed change in the highway from Camrose to W-etaskiwin has been let and that the work is to be proceeded with as speedily as possible. We understand, too, that this proposed new highway is to run almost parallel with the line of railway, and is apparently being built to accommodate the few tourists who might wish to travel to Edmonton from the east. Nor does the government even take into consideration the welfare of so important a centre as Wetaskiwin, as this city is to be side-tracked, the proposed road joining the Edmonton highway a mile north of us. And this is the treatment meted out to us after contributing the large sums we have paid in the way of taxation!

The government would be doing a real service to this community if they would expend a reasonable amount of this "ear-marked money" in improving the market roads going to Pigeon Lake on the west and to Water Glen and New Norway on the east, as the traffic over these roads is perhaps as heavy as on any rural road in the province, especially the road running to the west. This would assist the farmers to get to market with their products quickly and comfortably. But evidently, the government is not concerned about the farmers of this district, who would rather spend thousands of dollars on a highway which will be of little benefit to this city and community, and at the same time give Wetaskiwin the go-by—all for the sake of those dear tourists.

Wetaskiwin is not being fairly dealt with by the Farmers' Government of this province.

HOW TO PROMOTE IMMIGRATION

Editor Alberta: The Grain Growers' Guide of February 15 showed the picture of a 12-horse team, with one driver and two men, harvesting, threshing and bagging grain at the rate of 30 acres per day at a cost of 70 cents per acre (using more horsepower and less manpower), as against $4 per acre in the old way.

With the 69-horse team illustrated by the Grain Growers' Guide some months ago, handled by one driver with two mounted out-riders who cracked the whip over the slow or lazy animals, made the saving cost considerably greater than that of accomplishing as much proportionately with one manpower as five manpower in the old way, and in some operations one man does what 10 men used to do. As compared with the manpower used this season to seed and harvest the western crop of 500 million bushels, new methods will inside of 10 years enable that same manpower to seed and harvest 2,000,000,000 bushels. Now while we are putting forth an earnest endeavor for agricultural immigration, considering the new machinery and methods, would the newcomers of moderate means find either a job or an opportunity to compete with the then present conditions in agricultural lines in the west? Would not truck, fruit and vegetable farming be about the only opportunity for assisted immigration.

Mr. Wm. T. Lucas, U.F.A. M.P.'s statement in the House of Commons the other day is certainly startling. "Dominion provinces of Canada are spending $10,000,000 annually on immigration, with the result that the prairie provinces have lost the whole of their natural increase in population, as well as $8 per cent of the new immigration since 1921." Why continue that enormous expenditure for less than nothing in results?

Why not spend that amount annually in the construction of pulp and paper mills, asbestos factories, metal smelters of all kinds, factories to convert nickel, asbestos, iron, steel, copper, lumber, etc., into finished products here in Canada, and make home employment for every resident in Canada as well as millions from abroad?

If advanced machinery in our mills, factories and all other industrial plants enables them to produce five times the goods with the same manpower, where will be the opportunity of the new immigrant to get a job on the farm, in the town or in the city?

Is not the only attraction for a new immigrant to come to Canada a superabundance of employment? How can this be brought about? Will not insisting on the manufacture in Canada of our raw materials and natural products, of which we have more abundance than any other country in the world, provide more and longer employment?

With Britain buying and importing all the raw materials she can to be manufactured and exported, she provides partial employment for her multitude of people.

And the United States is importing 50 per cent of the raw materials they are manufacturing. Much of this material is Canadian; it is there converted into finished products, largely for the benefit of keeping her own population employed at good wages. She does not visit having to provide for them in some other way.

What chance has Canada to offer an abundance of employment or even to continue fully employing the population she has unless she manufactures her own raw materials at home. This would make every man, woman and child in Canada prosperous, happy and wealthy, as well as an additional million of choice new-comers.

Having more raw material and natural products than any country in the world, would not that policy make Canada the greatest and most populous country in the world in the shortest reasonable space of time? Nothing but a quota law could stop the Canadian workman in the United States from coming home in millions, and nothing but the transportation fares would stop millions more coming from Britain.

MISSIONS IN NEED OF TWENTY MINISTERS

Very gratifying reports were presented at the meeting of the provincial committee of home missions of the United Church, which met in Knox Church, Calgary, Wednesday and Thursday. So great has the work increased that it was stated that 20 extra ordained ministers will be required to meet the growing needs of Alberta this year.

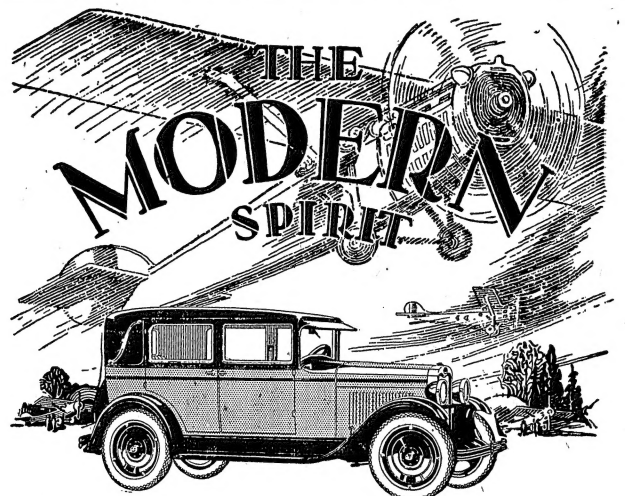

During the year the United Church has spent in Mission work in the province $170,000, and it was stated by Mrs. Scott that the Women's Missionary Society had spent $54,000 in addition.

This was the most optimistic meeting of the committee since union had taken place. The growth of the church had been phenomenal. The churches of Calgary seemed exceptionally prosperous.

Regrets were sent to Rev. A. L. Elliott of Wetaskiwin, who was unable to be present, having accompanied Mrs. Elliott to Rochester to undergo an operation.

Dranded: "Jim, I see that your mule has 'U.S.' branded on his right hind leg. I suppose he was an army mule and belonged to Uncle Sam?" "No, suh; dat 'U.S.' don't mean jes a warning. Dat 'U.S.' jes stands nothin' 'bout Uncle Samuel. Dat's fo' 'Un Safe'—'at's all."

in a Low Priced Car

THE most recent trend of automobile design is strikingly exemplified in the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet. The high, narrow radiator, the long, low bodies, the unbroken sweep of the lines from front to rear, the stylish blending of colors in finish and upholstery—all these distinguish Chevrolet as unmistakably new and fashionable.

In power, in speed and snap, the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet is no less modern and vigorous. Countless refinements in engine and chassis give Chevrolet a performance as dependable as it is brilliant. The "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet, alone among low-priced cars, has truly caught the modern spirit.

Finds Taxes
High in U.S.

Dear Friends—

As we have been about five months in the state of Iowa, and shortly will proceed to the coast, we thought we would drop you a few lines to let you know about the conditions of the country in general. First about the weather. It has been very nice for the past two weeks, having been as high as 83 in the shade, but today we had a nice rain, and tonight it is freezing a little. The farmers are all busy raking, burning and discing corn stalks. Some have seeded oats, and some are plowing for corn, a few potatoes have also been planted. We find that most people are renters on the farms and are paying from $8.00 to $11.00 per acre for rent. They seem to get a fair living out of it, and a few are making some money. Corn is high, from 80c to 90c, wheat about $1.30, oats 70c, cattle, steers top price 15c, hogs, top, $8.30, dairy butter 40c, eggs, 25c per dozen.

Temperance, or prohibition, seems to be a failure, as a great deal of money is spent for enforcing the act. A great many people make their home brew, and bootleggers keep the people supplied with the hard stuff.

A couple of weeks ago an Illinois still was found in Omaha that had a capacity of 500 gallons per day.

Work seems to be plentiful now, as practically all manufacturing plants have started to work. Building has been going on all winter here, and some buildings that were started last fall are now completed; farm laborers are getting from $50 to $85 per month.

Farm lands are worth from $100 to $175 per acre, but personally, I do not see how land can be worth more than $100 per acre, as upkeep is high, especially lumber, and taxes are from $1.50 to $4.00 per acre. Everything is taxed here, excepting the wife and children.

A great deal of money is expended on the public highways, most roads here will be made out of concrete. The gravelled roads do not seem to be satisfactory, as the upkeep is too high. For two years they have to continuously keep working the gravel to the center of the road, and then finally holes will work into the roads, and they say that it is almost impossible from then on to keep them in proper condition. Nebraska's roads have increased in maintaining cost from a little over $1,000,000 in 1925, to nearly $3,000,000 in 1927, so that concrete roads are higher in the first place, but cheaper in the long run. I write you this so that your government can profit by not following the old method.

Well, if weather conditions are right, we will start on our journey to the coast. We will take the southern route, which will take us through Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and California. From there westward to Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, perhaps Alberta, North Dakota, South Dakota and back to Omaha, Nebraska.

In the meantime we would ask all who care to write to us, address as follows: P. C. Petersen, c/o G. C. Ferguson, 1436 E. 77 Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

We are sincerely yours,

P. C. Petersen and Family.

PROVINCE MAY LAUNCH INTO POWER SCHEME IN FUTURE, HINTS PREMIER

If at some future date the provincial government should contemplate embarking on a policy of hydro-electric development, it wishes to be in a position to do so, and for this reason important amendments are being made to the Public Utilities Act designed to safeguard the interests of the government. This was the effect of a statement made by Premier Brownlee to the legislature.

The premier's statement resulted in the whole question of power develop-

"I had been bothered with pains in my heart and nervousness for some time, yes, for years, and the least little thing would put me on pins and needles."

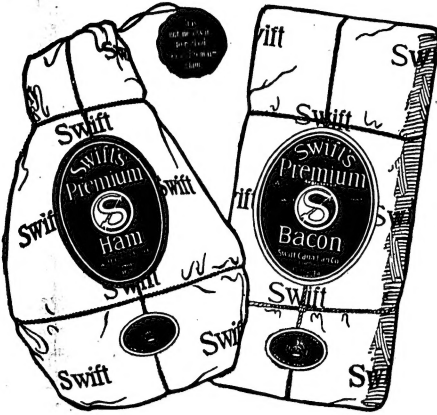

"I tried a lot of different medicines, but it seemed to make no difference. I even went to our doctor, but all he said was that I needed a rest, but I didn't as I only had one child three years old and she didn't require much care."

"Last winter while cooking in a lumber camp the foreman told me to try"

so I got a box and before it was half taken I found that my nerves were beginning to quiet down, and the pains were all gone from my heart, and I could lie down and go to sleep without any fear."

ment being threshed out at considerable length. The amendments, according to the interpretation given them by the premier, clearly provide that no two parties can contract in the matter of power rights to exclude the rights of the crown. A person seeking a power franchise or privilege must satisfy the Public Utilities Board that the scheme for the supply of power is reasonable and sufficient, having regard to the general circumstances.

The amendments will clothe the Utilities Board with power to say to what extent municipalities can make power contracts. The Board can also demand that a general power scheme for the development of an area be submitted and until such general scheme is submitted can refuse a power franchise.

Mr. Brownlee stressed the fact that the government is anxious to protect itself in the matter of water sites on the Bow River and other possible power projects, in the event that it should at some future date reach a decision to embark on a program of power development. He pointed out that the law is that two parties cannot enter into a contract which would interfere with the crown, but it was necessary now to put this into concrete form. Unless provision is made it might be said at some future date by the power companies already in the field that the government was arbitrarily enforcing the rights of the crown.

In the power situation in the province at the present time, and the scramble for franchises now going on there was grave danger of unnatural and unhealthy competition that would be uneconomical. As an instance of the danger the premier pointed to the situation in regard to the towns of Raymond and Magrath in the southern part of the province. Although these towns lie only a few miles apart, one power company had secured a franchise in one town and another power company had entered the field in the other. This kind of competition was undesirable and the amendment proposing that power companies must submit a scheme for a whole area would give the public utilities board power to deal with a situation of this kind.

Captain J. T. Shaw, Liberal leader, agreed with the premier's statement that the present scramble for power franchises by two companies is undesirable and that steps must be taken to control the situation. He thought the government might undertake an investigation in regard to power from the standpoint of the individual farmer, so that the agriculturist might know if he will some time be in a position to carry on his work assisted by power. Captain Shaw asked the premier if he would inform the House as to the situation in regard to the Spray Lakes matter.

Premier Brownlee gave a brief survey of the negotiations which had been conducted with Hon. Charles Stewart, and reports of which have been published in the press from time to time. The province has been urging that Spray Lakes be eliminated from the Banff National Park and turned over to the provincial government. The dominion government had held the view that the province should definitely say as to whether or not it intended to undertake development.

This and one or two other factors had held up completion of the negotiations.

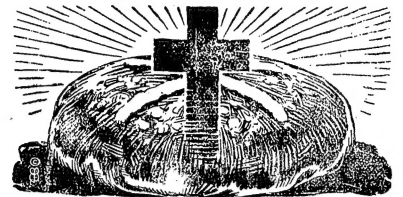

In regard to Spray Lakes, Mr. Brownlee believed that if the province could justify a policy of public ownership in the matter of power development, such a policy might be undertaken. It might be possible that at some time the government would take over the undertakings of the Calgary Power Company, but if power concessions were being given throughout the province for 20 or 30 years as at present, it would make it much more difficult to carry through such a policy. On the general question of power development, the outlook, if the province decided to launch into such a program, was much brighter than it had ever been. He pointed to the greatly improved railway situation and said that the position of the telephone department would greatly facilitate the carrying out of any power policy that might be initiated. The telephone branch already has the transmission lines and offices and all that would be required would be to supplement the staff.

New Alberta Coal Board of Standards

Edmonton, March 31.—R. J. Dining, provincial liquor commissioner, and Alberta's representative on the Canadian coal committee, is the head of a new "board of standards" agreed upon by Alberta coal operators at their meeting with Premier Brownlee Friday afternoon.

This board will make a survey of all Alberta coals, and will issue a list of such coals as it considers suitable for shipping to Ontario. Edgar Stansfield, University of Alberta fuel expert, R. G. Drinnan, bituminous coal-fields operator of Edmonton, and Ontario fuel controller Ellis (elected by Premier Ferguson of Ontario) are the other members of the board, all of them recommended by Mr. Brownlee, and unanimously agreed to by the coal operators.

The marketing of Alberta coal by a compulsory pool was foreshadowed during the discussion on the setting up of an Ontario coal office as proposed by Premier Ferguson, but for this year at least, individual efforts already embarked upon by dealers, will be continued, operators feeling that there should be every possible effort this year, to offset U.S. propaganda in favor of hard coal and coke.

INCOME TAX RETURNS DUE BY APRIL 30TH

Every year brings changes in the Income Tax Act with the result that few people are certain as to what the exemptions are or even what the rate of tax is. This year the government has decided to make a second reduction of 10 per cent, from the amount of tax otherwise payable. That is to say, 20 per cent, or one-fifth of the tax calculated to be due, according to the rates in force should be deducted in making payment.

The exemption for a married person will be $3,000 and for an unmarried person $1,500. However, where a husband and wife have separate incomes in excess of $1,500 exemption is allowed to each only on the first $1,500. Dependent children under the age of 21 are allowed exemption on $500.

The rate of tax is graded as follows:

2 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income or any portion thereof, in excess of exemptions, 3 per cent on the next $1,000 and so on, rising 1 per cent for each additional $1,000 or any portion thereof.

Returns will be required to be filed out not later than April 30th, and taxpayers have the option of making payment of one-fourth of the amount due when filing returns and one-fourth plus interest every two months thereafter.

A supply of forms for 1927 has been issued to every post office and may be obtained by all persons wanting them.

The newly formed Edmonton federal district touches Wetaskiwin, Camrose and Battle River, and from a point at Hackett on the Hanna-Warden line of the Canadian National Railway dips south and east to Lovers' extension, continuing along that line to the Saskatchewan border afterwards going from Coronation to Conserve, which is in the northeast corner of the federal constituency of Acadia.

Returns of all taxpayers north of this boundary must be sent into the new district of Edmonton offices situated in the post office building.

BLIZZARDS, HEAVY SNOW AND COLD FOLLOW MARCH LION

March 30.—The United Press reports: Blizzards, heavy snow fall and generally low temperature today superseded a brief period of spring weather for the middle west. Temperatures which ranged as high as 75 degrees above zero over the area gave way to below freezing markings while high winds whipped snow and sleet into a half dozen states.

A snowstorm raged over Illinois and parts of Wisconsin the most of yesterday and all last night. It was a sticky snow which clung to everything it touched, plastering buildings and mauling motor cars.

Several inches of snow had fallen in Chicago this morning, the drifts piling high, whipped by a 40-mph wind. Temperatures dropped 30 degrees in 48 hours.

A light snow and sleet fell over Missouri, terminating today in freezing weather. The drop in temperature also was reported from Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

Minnesota reported snow while the Dakotas felt blizzards.

March was going out like a lion and weather bureaus reported there was little prospect that the roar would be softened before the end of several days.

More than 2,000 farmers visited the forage crop cars which toured the province during February and the first part of March this year under the auspices of the Alberta Provincial government with the aid of the Canadian National Railways, according to a report which has just been made public. The tour, which began at Alliance on January 21, wound up at St. Paul de Metis on March 3, after taking in 25 points. The average attendance at the stops was 51, and do less than 5,543 pounds of corn, grasses, clover, alfalfa and sunflower seeds were sold—better seed, which is part of the department of agriculture's program for better farming. The third annual tour is regarded as entirely successful.

Special meetings for the school children were necessary at a number of points, and on the St. Paul de Metis line one of the lecturers who spoke Ukrainian addressed large audiences of new Canadians. The attendance was considerably larger than last year and the interest was so keen that there was scarcely a place which did not wind up the meetings with lively discussions on the merits of the various kinds of forage crops.

MEDICINE HAT ELECTION SET FOR MAY FIRST

Edmonton, March 28.—A writ for the Medicine Hat by-election has been issued, the date set being Tuesday, May 1. Mrs. Winnifred G. Baker, of Medicine Hat will be the returning officer. The election, which will cover only the electoral division of Medicine Hat, is for the purpose of filling the vacancy created by the death of C. S. Pingle, late member for the constituency.

DIET FOR HORSES SUBJECT FOR SUIT

Will a horse thrive on a straw diet, or does it need water in addition? This interesting question about the farm diet-sheet was aired in court in Calgary when Mr. Justice Walsh heard an action by Frank Rudge, Pollockville, against Oliver W. Stauffer, Didsbury, for $900 damages. The claim was dismissed.

Rudge made an arrangement with Stauffer to care for 18 horses until February 1, 1927. Stauffer's letter undertook to feed the horses as usual "that is straw three times a week." The horses ran in Stauffer's pasture and he gave them straw three times a week and salt, but no water. Rudge claimed that they were in such poor condition when delivered that he incurred heavy loss on the sale of the horses and asked damages against Stauffer for $900. Rudge claimed that his loss was due to the fact that water was not given to the horses.

A number of witnesses were called on both sides, some claiming that water was essential in such a case and others swore that with snow on the ground and proper feeding of straw on pasture land the horses obtained moisture from the snow which they incidentally ate along with the straw and grass.

Mr. Justice Walsh held that the contract did not imply watering the horses and dismissed the claim for damages.

HERE'S AN OLD ONE AND IT STILL WORKS

A man with a tremendous appetite entered the William King chile con carne restaurant, Calgary, on Friday and proceeded to order the best the place could afford. After having regaled himself, an obsequious waiter tendered him the check, which amounted to no less than $5, and received a United States $20 certificate in payment.

With $15 in good Canadian currency in change, the man left the restaurant. Tendering the American bill for payment in a shop Friday morning, Mr. King had it curiously refused by the shopkeeper. On examination it appeared that it was a United States $1 bill, raised to $20 by pasting the figure 20 over the original 1, on the four corners of the banknote.

"We have only one complaint against our cook," "What is that?" "We can never tell whether she is singing happily at her work or whether she has burnt herself and is in pain."

Now, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives', I am free from those ailments and able to do my work without pain or fatigue. Mrs. Thos. Evans. Lougheed, March 31.—W. Halverson has purchased the farm formerly owned by W. T. Lucas, M.P. The farm comprises 800 acres, and is situated three and a half miles east of town. WHY IT PAYS TO RAISE HIGH GRADE BEEF IN ALBERTA

At the Fat Stock Show and Sale at Regina, last week, McKenzie Brothers of Lacombe, sold three car lots of butcher steers to P. Burns and Company for 11 cents a pound. This is seventy-five cents per hundred pounds above the record price for car lots at this date, and shows the quality of the stock handled by McKenzie Brothers, and the willingness of buyers to pay the price for high quality beef.

Mckenzie Brothers are feeders in a large way at Lacombe and their fat stock always stand high at the Calgary yards.—Calgary Herald.

BRETT'S LTD. CHANGES HANDS; J. STARR, OF EDMONTON, PURCHASER

After the ceremony a social time was spent. The women of Mooseheart Legion chapter joined the members; wives and families of the members were also present. Director E. Thompson welcomed the members from Wetaskiwin, also the members of the Edmonton chapter. In an appropriate address on the aims and objects of Moosehood, Mr. J. ANOTHER TOAD LIVED 20 YEARS—HO, HUM

Winnipeg, March 30.—A toad that lived embedded in stone for 20 years has been found at Emerson, Man. The toad was discovered by workmen employed in tearing down a section of a hotel while making alterations. Mr. Toad was found sitting as he had sat for the past 20 years, since the hotel was built in 1907.

Dusty and somewhat shrunken, the toad was at first thought to be dead, but when touched it moved with a healthy hop.

BIG MAJORITY FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL IN RED DEER

Red Deer, March 27.—The vote on the bylaw for the new high school in Red Deer was carried on Monday with a majority of 119. The vote was as follows:

For the bylaw, 275; against, 156; spoiled ballots, 1.

STERILIZATION OF DAIRY UTENSILS ON THE FARM

Of the various sources of contamination to which milk is subject, the dairy utensils have been definitely established as one of the most serious, capable of contributing a high percentage of the bacteria found in milk. Consequently the sterilization of cans, pails or other containers cannot be neglected if milk containing few bacteria is to be produced. Thorough cleaning is essential, but in itself is insufficient. Steps must be taken to destroy as many as possible of the bacteria still remaining, if the keeping quality of milk is to be improved.

For sterilization, steam under pressure, the most satisfactory agent, is seldom available. In its absence, a sufficient quantity of boiling water gives good results. Pails, strainers, etc., after washing are scalded by pouring a pint of boiling water over the entire inner surface; cans are best treated by pouring in a quart of boiling water, replacing the lid, and rolling the can along the floor to ensure thorough scalding of the inner surface. As the temperature of the water drops over 50°F during this operation,

The Wrigley Swimming Marathon Trophy is a perpetual trophy to be competed for each year. The first Wrigley Marathon was held off Catalina Island, and won by George Young, of Toronto. The second Wrigley Marathon was held at Toronto and was won by Ernst Vierkoetter, of Berlin, Germany. The third Wrigley Marathon will be held in 1928, either in Canada or the United States. The Wrigley Trophy is a reproduction in sterling silver of the famous "Flying Mercury" modeled by Giovanni da Bologna. The position of the figure is changed to show Mercury presenting to Father Neptune a wreath. Neptune with his trident, dolphins and water surrounding are in bronze. The figure Mercury contains over 1,000 ounces of silver. In addition to the big trophy there will be provided annually a replica in sterling silver and bronze, to be presented to the city where the Marathon is held.

a fresh quantity must be provided for each utensil. Unless this is done, good results cannot be hoped for.

Because of the saving in time and fuel, chlorine solutions are being used in some districts to replace the scalding treatment, and where used intelligently have equal or superior sterilizing efficiency. Cans and pails are carefully rinsed with chlorine solution as in the scalding treatment, or immersed for one minute in a tank containing the solution. Either is satisfactory provided the utensils are well washed and the chlorine solution is up to strength. Further details regarding this method may be obtained from the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont.

Following sterilization, unless used immediately, utensils should be inverted upon a draining rack to dry. Except during the cold weather, an outdoor rack placed in the sun is desirable. With free circulation of air, the utensils will soon dry, checking the multiplication of the few surviving bacteria and ensuring that the benefits of the sterilizing treatment will not be lost through further development of bacteria in the moisture inside the utensils.

JUST FOLKS

TAXES

When they come due I don't like them at all, Taxes look large be they ever so small. Taxes are debts which I venture to say No man or no woman is happy to pay. I grumble about them, as most of us do, For it seems that with taxes I never am through.

But when I reflect on the city I love, With its sewers below and its pavements above, And its schools and its parks where the children may play, I can see what I get for the money I pay. And I say to myself: "Little joy would be mine if we kept all our money and spent it alone!"

I couldn't build streets and I couldn't fight fire, Policemen to guard us I never could hire. A water department I couldn't maintain, Instead of a city we'd still have a plain. Then I look at the bill for the taxes I pay, And I say to myself: "Well, that isn't so large."

I walk through a hospital thronged with the ill And I find that it shrivels the size of my bill. As in beauty and splendor my home city grows, It is easy to see where my tax money goes. And I say to myself: "If we lived hit and miss And gave up our taxes, we couldn't do this!"

BULLET IN BULLS

The following item has been sent to The Times:

Pat and Mike, having an hour for lunch, one day decided to drop in and visit the parson of a certain village church. When they arrived at the parson's house, they found that he had gone out. No one being in, they thought they would go in and have a look around. Upon entering, they found a pie on the dining-room table, and as they were feeling hungry, decided to eat it. They were just finishing when the parson arrived on the scene. They had no time to get out without being discovered, and hid in the dish cupboard. Mike on the lower shelf and Pat on the upper. The parson entered, and finding the pie gone, said "The One above knows where it is gone. Pat shouts out 'You're a liar, the one below knows as much about it as I do!'"

LAMB BORN WITH TWO HEADS Ed. Rothe of Kimball, reports that a ewe lamb on his farm gave birth to a freak lamb on Friday, March 23. It had two heads, four eyes and three ears, and weighed 11 lbs. was, however, born dead.—Cardston News.

Here and There

Work on "The Royal York, new hotel of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Toronto, is ten days ahead of schedule and there is now every probability that it will be completed by May 1, next year. It will lower 355 feet above the sidewalk, being the tallest building in the British Empire.

A. Allerton has been appointed general manager of hotels and bungalow camps east of Port William, operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway; and H. F. Mathews, general manager of hotels and bungalow camps from Port William to the Pacific. The appointments were consequent on the death of C. E. E. Usher, late general passenger traffic manager of the railway.

Palle Huld, 15-year-old Danish boy, who is travelling round the world in 46 days, passed through Montreal and the east of Canada recently on his way to Vancouver, whence he will sail by Canadian Pacific All-Red route to Yokohama. The exploit is in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Jules Verne, whose book "Round the World in 80 Days," has always been a favorite with boys.

Fort William.—Elevator capacity at Fort William will probably total 100,000,000 bushels by 1930. Present storage capacity of the twin cities is recorded as 72,544,000 bushels and between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 bushels will be added before the 1928 crop is garnered. Expansion in the following two years will take about 20,000,000 bushels, one of the largest terminal building projects in the history of the lakehead ports or any of the other centres of the continent.

Winnipeg.—So many applications have been received from farmers in Manitoba to enter the services of youths who are being sent out from Great Britain under the Boy Immigration scheme, that the Provincial Government has requested the authorities to increase the number from 50 to 100. Hon. Albert Frenkel, Minister of Agriculture, stated that 175 farmers have filed applications for boy help. It is expected that the first batch of youthful immigrants will reach Manitoba late in March.

Substantial reductions in express charges on packages up to 15 lbs. in weight originating in Europe and in Canadian destination have been announced by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Express companies. These cuts run as high as 25 per cent. The reduction of express charges has been divided into three zones, Maritime Provinces and Quebec; Ontario; and Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. Within these zones charges are the same no matter how widely separated points within them may be.

Wetaskiwin.—Wetaskiwin district has the distinction of being the home of a Shorthorn cow which holds the record for all Canada in the production of milk and butterfat as a three-year-old. She is owned by J. O. Harvey in the northwestern part of the city, and a letter from Ottawa advises that the production of milk from this cow has never been equalled in Canada. Gladye No. 20698 produced 22,504 lbs. of milk and 69 lbs. of butter fat in a test extending over 366 days. She is now undergoing a test for a four-year-old and is averaging about 18 lbs. of milk a day.

THINKING

If you think you are beaten you are, If you think you dare not, you don't. If you'd like to win, but you think you can't, It's almost a cinch you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost, For out of the world we find Success begins with a fellow's will. It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed you are. You've got to think high to rise. You've got to be sure of yourself before you can win a prize. You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go To the stronger or faster man; But sooner or later the man who wins Is the man who thinks he can.

HAVE YOUR SEED TESTED

Germination tests of wheat which has been threshed this spring prove that the vitality has been badly damaged. If there is a widespread planting of this spring threshed wheat disastrous results will follow. The directors of the Alberta Wheat Pool are greatly concerned over this menace and urge farmers to have their seed tested for germination.

Importance of Clean Seed: A Bit of Advice

The following paper was prepared by Mr. R. C. Young, a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, and read at the meeting of the Hillsdale Local U.F.A. on Friday evening last: "The importance of clean seed for grain growing in the West, as indeed for every country, cannot be exaggerated. It is a horrible thing to see new land broken up, and in some cases, before four crops are harvested, it is difficult to say if the main part of the crop is wild oats or wheat. The only way to ensure clean land is to sow clean seed, or if horses are used at all in the preparation or harvesting, to feed only carefully ground or crushed grain; the writer knows of a case where a farmer bought registered oats from Edmonton, and carefully examined the seed and found no trace of wild oat; yet when he used it on new breaking, the crop had patches of wild oats all over it. He then remembered that the man who broke land for him, used dirty whole oats for his horses, so there he is, in a bad hole, for want of care and thought. Do not use oats with many wild ones in them, for seed, at any price. If you do not want to go to the expense of registered oats, which are the only ones absolutely free from wild oats, run the seed slowly, without any wind, and little shake on, over a blank screen covered with white oilcloth, in the upper shoe of your fanning mill, and sit in front of it and catch every wild oat which comes over. If there are not too many, and care be taken, none should be missed; it is not, however, a very big job to do this over again to make sure. The seed should, of course, have been first carefully fanned. The grain can drop into the front carrier pan and be caught in pails at the side of the machine. Wheat can generally be cleaned almost absolutely by means of a good fanning mill, from everything except the smallest barley seeds. Barley can be cleaned very well by combining fanning with the ordinary mill, and using one of the revolving drum type with a 7x7 screen. The great importance of using pure seed cannot be exaggerated, and the lower commercial grades should never be bought. If any grade lower than Extra No. 1 be bought, it should be cleaned as advised in the last paragraph. No 3 seed may contain so many weed seeds, that it is not a safe thing to buy.

Registered and Extra No. 1 Timothy and other grass seeds, may contain one secondary noxious weed seed to the ounce, which at 5 lbs. seeding, would give 10 to the acre; No. 3 Timothy or other grass seed would allow 6400 primary and secondary noxious weed seeds to the acre, which is some seeding. The writer does not consider that No. 3 grade should be sold at all.

When your land is polluted with weeds, you should consult the Weed Inspector about their eradication. That is what he is there for. He is not an enemy put in by a wicked council to bully the farmer, but a friend to help him. He does not know everything himself, but is in touch with the Department and Schools of Agriculture, and is able to consult them in any difficulty. If you have any weeds you are suspicious about, or have any Sow Thistle, Canada Thistle, Stinkweed or Wild Mustard, notify the Weed Inspector at once.

The weed problem is no new one.

GENERAL MERCHANTS

Wetaskiwin, Alta.

Just about seven hundred years ago, King Alexander Second of Scotland, made a law which read in part: "If thy tenant puts weeds on thy land and will not clean it, he shall be hanged."

Such heroic measures today would mean a serious depletion of the farm population. We have many more kinds of weeds here now than they had over there then; ours are collected from every part of the globe.

But the situation is very serious, and it is being continually aggravated by the farmers who are careless as to what kind of seed they sow. In Manitoba many thousands of acres are abandoned on account of weeds, and many more thousands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and South Alberta are unprofitable for the same reason.

In most cases the cost of registered seed will be many times repaid by increased yield. If a farmer would seed a small plot of new clean land with it and thresh it carefully with clean machinery and racks, and see that all horses are eating chopped grain, and keep the grain in clean sacks, using every possible care all through, he would have clean seed for himself.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

Despite the many safety devices incorporated in present day automobiles and the numerous precautions taken by the manufacturers thousands of cars are stolen yearly.

A great many times it is due to the carelessness of the owner. Frequently a driver will not lock his car when he is leaving it for just a few moments. He forgets that the great majority of stolen cars are taken within ten minutes after the owner leaves the machine.

Caution is sometimes thrown to the winds because the car is insured in spite of the fact that insurance seldom covers the full value of the car and does not pay for all the ensuing trouble and inconvenience.

Always lock the car before leaving it.

Never leave keys in the car.

Keep a record with you of the license number, serial number of the motor, and serial number of the tires. It will then be easy to give quick information to the authorities in case of theft.

Never leave parcels, grips or luggage in a parked car.

Be sure all doors are locked and the windows are up if you are parking a closed car.

Put secret identification marks on the car.

Use only the best tire locks and chains so that they cannot be cut by thieves.

Do not help the thief by parking in alleys where he can steal accessories. Do not leave car out overnight. In the event car is stolen, notify the police without delay.

Our Ottawa Letter

(By Wm. Irvine, M.P.)

The Budget is still the chief bone of contention in committee of the whole. It is crawling through, item by item. Both parties are striving for the inside of the political track in respect to the discussion which is getting wearisome and which, I fear, is not as enlightening or as profitable as it might be.

Parliament will close for the Easter holidays on March 30th and will re-assemble ten days later. Provision has been made by the government for the withdrawal of Private Members' Days immediately after the holidays, so that the government business will occupy the entire attention of the House from the date of re-assembling until the close of the session.

The two matters which appeared to create the most stir in parliament during last week was a Bill introduced by Mr. Garland of Bow River which provided for safeguarding of the merit system in the Civil Service, and a resolution which I introduced, at the behest of the U.F.A. Group, asking for legislation at once providing for the conservation of all natural resources, transportation, industrial plants, financial institutions and all other agencies of national service in the event of another war involving Canada.

In respect to Mr. Garland's Bill, it will be remembered that in 1918 the Union Government introduced and passed the Civil Service Act. The purpose of the Act was the elimination of patronage in appointments of Civil Servants and substituting for that system the merit principle. It early became apparent that politicians did not relish the loss of patronage which had been the chief prop of the party system. The very next year a few of the weaker members openly clamored for a return.

But while the Union Government held together it suited both parties very well that patronage had not been left as an added means of disintegration. In 1921 there was a more definite attempt by some of the Quebec Members to kill the merit system, but it was sustained. Leading Liberals went on record in opposition to patronage. Hon. Mr. Levesque called the "infernal patronage system"; Mr. Lapointe said "I do not believe in the patronage system; it has been found wanting everywhere. I think that positions should go to merit and never to influence." The Prime Minister, then leader of the Opposition said "I stand strongly for the merit principle and promotion on the basis of merit."

But the old, old story must be repeated. The present Government came into office in 1921 and since then has passed no less than fifty Orders-in-Council exempting certain positions from the operation of the Civil Service Act. So that, under these exemptions there are over 15,000 positions restored to patronage. Included in this number are the staffs of three "War" Departments which were expected at the time of organization to be temporary, but which have since become permanent. These are the Income Tax Branch, the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

Mr. Garland's Bill asked that all these positions be restored to the Civil Service Commission so that patronage be eliminated from the public service. During his argument on the Bill he charged that two of the Civil Service Commissioners were not enthusiastic supporters of the merit system and that the government had been leaning toward patronage throughout its term.

Mr. Garland's Bill produced a good deal of warmth, but was talked out and will likely be talked out if it is ever reached again.

My resolution favoring the conservation of money and material in time of war was argued on the following grounds, as will be seen in Hansard of March 31st:

(1) We now spend a good deal of money yearly in preparation for war, and yet all that we spend is entirely inadequate if war were to come. But since there is reason for making any preparation at all, there can be no excuse for failing to make the most adequate preparation. And modern war, depending as it does so much on industrial and financial institutions, those should be organized for national service in case of need, and provision should be made in time of peace for the government to take control of them in an emergency. This action would provide adequate preparation without additional cost to the nation.

(2) While private corporations are allowed to make profit out of war and war supplies, there is an incentive to international strife which constitutes the chief menace to world peace. If every banker, railway magnate and captain of industry knew that the moment war was declared he would cease making profits and begin to serve the state on soldiers' pay it is very doubtful if ever war would be declared again. But if, in spite of this, war were to come, then the conviction would be general that it could not be avoided, the entire resources of the state would be behind the struggle and every citizen would enter and emerge from the conflict on a democratic footing. So that to make arrangements for the automatic conscription of all agencies necessary to national service in time of war would insure lasting peace by taking the profit incentive out of war, and would mean justice to between citizens in giving of service in the event of the dire calamity of war overtaking us in spite of the precautions taken.

(3) Such conscription would mean that a war could be fought without having a war debt to pay to a few financiers on the signing of peace. The national credit is always pledged to bankers as a means of financing a war. That being so, the nation should owe its debt to itself when war is over. As it is now, while the national credit is pledged, the bankers collect for the entire expenditure of the war with interest added.

(4) The time to provide for the conscription of those agencies is now. It is too late when war has been declared.

Provincial Weekly News Bulletin

(Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, latered Shorthorn cow in the herd of the University of Alberta has just completed a 365 day R.O.P. test, during which she produced 15,428 pounds of milk with an average test of 4.5 per cent, making a total of 664 pounds of butterfat. This record places her sixth highest in Canada in point of butterfat production for Shorthorn cows. The record was made during her fourth lactation period and the cow had never been hand-milked until the commencement of the test just completed.

Her record for production is more remarkable from the fact that this cow is the mother of the steer "Choice U.A." which was grand champion at the Toronto Royal Fair and champion Shorthorn steer at the Chicago International in 1927.

Agricultural Department Expenditures Justified

The statement made during the recent Session of the Legislature that there is an increase of 35 per cent in the estimates of the Department of Agriculture for 1928-29 over the expenditures for 1924 is not borne out by the facts, it is pointed out by Hon. George Handley. It is true that the estimated expenditure of $741,444 shows an increase of 34.73 per cent over the figures $550,287.54, the expenditures from the 1924 votes, which, however, only represents a portion of the true expenditure for that year. In 1924 the Department of Agriculture expended a sum of $61,005.85 from the Dominion Government Grant for Agricultural Instruction Aid, a source which is not now available. These expenditures brought the 1924 total to $611,293.39.

C.P.R. to Complete Line Into Edmonton
Completion of the C.P.R. Cutknife-Whitford Lake branch line from the present terminus at Whittallton into Edmonton is proposed during the coming season, according to the announcement of the company's building program for 1928. Construction of a thirteen-mile extension of the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company's line southeast from Woodford and 2 1/2 miles of line on the Gen Colony Branch are also included in the season's program.

Will Move More Buffalo North
It is expected that some 1,100 head of buffalo, mostly year-olds, will be shipped from the Walworth Park early in June to the range in the far northern part of the province where during the past three years several thousand head have been transferred. The former monarchs of the plains have increased so rapidly in their sanctuary at Walworth that their numbers have far exceeded the carrying capacity of the pasture in the park. Reports from the vicinity of Fort Smith on the northern boundary of the province indicate that the animals which have been moved are thriving in their new home.

Agricultural School Term Ended

Commenting on the use of the harvester-dresher or "comb" in Saskatchewan the International Harvester Co. states that during 1924 and 1925 representatives concluded the general use of this machine for harvesting grain crops in Western Canada was thoroughly practicable. In 1926 a number of machines were sold there and excellent testimonials were received from purchasers. In 1927 there was a greatly increased sale due to the showing, and results even under the unfavorable conditions prevailing that season were strikingly successful.

Over 600 new families arriving in Canada this year with limited capital can be looked after and settled successfully in Alberta by the various provincial agents of the Canada Colonization Association, according to reports submitted by various representatives at the annual Alberta convention just concluded at Calgary. The objective first set, of 400 families, but a survey showed that at least 200 more settlements could be made. T. O. P. Heron, manager of the association, reported that during the past three years 486 families had been settled in Alberta on 125,000 acres of land of which 118 were settled last year.

David J. Gowan has been appointed assistant general manager of the hotels eastern line, Canadian Pacific Railway, announcement was made recently. Mr. Gowan whose headquarters will be in Montreal, has been handling C. P. R. hotel work since 1905.

Vancouver.—The first radio telephone conversation between Vancouver and Regina took place on Thursday, March 8th, when a member of a local business firm talked to a representative of the firm in Regina. Each could hear the other distinctly, they said. The call lasted four minutes and cost $75. This conversation was said to be the longest ever made in the British Empire, spanning a distance of 7,000 miles.

John G. Strathdee, director of winter sports at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City, states that the winter season just concluded there was the best in the history of the city. Many parties came from New York, New England States, Chicago and even as far south as Wilmington, Del. The season practically came to an end with the Eastern International Dog Derby February 20-22, having commenced at the end of December.

A contract for the building of a new steamer for the British Columbia Coast Steamship Service to take the place of the Princess Beatrice on the Prince Rupert, Skagway or west coast of Vancouver Island run, has been signed by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The steamer will be 150 feet long by 48 feet broad and will have a service speed of 35 knots with accommodation for 170 first-class passengers.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics the average production of wheat over the five years 1922-26 in Manitoba was 17.5 bushels to the acre, in Saskatchewan 17.3 bushels to the acre and in Alberta 17.2 bushels to the acre. The average values per bushel in the same period were respectively $1.00, 97c and 94c, making the respective returns per acre from wheat for the three provinces $17.50, $16.78 and $16.16.

Accommodation at Jasper to be increased

Additional accommodation at Jasper Park Lodge and at a number of outlying trail camps in the park is to be ready for the opening of the 1928 season, it is announced by Walter Pratt, manager of hotels for the Canadian National Railway system. "FRUITION"

(By Allan Swinton)

As the smart red cutter with the gaily jangling bells pulled up at old man Garnet's house, Pete came abruptly to a halt, with the blood throbbing in his temples. He slipped into the inky shadow cast by a spruce on the snow and stood there motionless, while a figure in a beaver coat hitched the pacer and crunched up to the door.

So it was true. The remarks he'd heard were not mere jocose attempts to draw him. Hanson was paying serious attention to Madeleine. He cursed and turned away. What chance had he, with his lumberman's pay and his mother and broken father both to keep. And he knew she liked him; that, given the opportunity, he could win her over. But what a hope! He trudged back through the snow toward the town.

A bond shut off the yellow house lights, and the road swung in to skirt the lake that stretched, a ghostly, silver plain, to its far limits of black ranks of spruce. The sky was a faultless dome of icy sapphire, spangled with countless myriads of hanging stars.

Anyway, that settled it. He'd drive no logs this spring for Hanson—not with prospectors from all America pouring through Pine Lookout in the greatest gold rush since the Klondyke. What little he'd saved would keep the old folk for a year, and plenty outfits would be glad to grubstake such a musher as "Slim" Pete Lafitte. The little town had been so reputable was now transformed to a thriving metropolis by the crowds of men who poured in to begin their rush for claims.

As he neared, the eerie howl of huskies rose and fell unceasingly, like the wailing of lost souls in Hades. The night train had just pulled in. He went across. The platform was thronged with bulky figures and cluttered with piles of packs and snowshoes, dufls, bedding and toboggans.

In the box car at the back men wrestled blasphemously with dogs that snarled and growled and burlled themselves upon their chains to get at one another.

The hushmen went about their business with the slow imperturbability of men long disciplined by nature, loneliness and time. Their deep husky comments were like the winter wind in jackpines.

Pete lingered a little, then made his way to the barnlike structure of new deals which since the rush began Ham Dart had built to supplement his previous six bedrooms. The approach was lined by howling huskies, and the door surrounded by a veritable forest of upended snowshoes and toboggans.

Inside, a lone lamp glowed through smoke above the big square stove around which men sat, while gaunt bunks stretched back tier on tier to gloom. Like the station, the room was cluttered with equipment for the winter trail, from the costly new kit of the representatives of great corporations to the patched and snow-covered outfits of the grizzled scoundrels.

Ham Dart was hunched above his ledger by the light of the bleary lamp. Seeing Pete, he reached a stockinged foot and jabbed a man who bent over a snowshoe harness. The man looked up—a fat, pale fellow.

"There's the best musher in these parts—if you can get him." The fellow approached Pete. "You want a job—to go in?"

"Ten bucks a day, all found. You assign your claims to us." Pete shook his lean black head inconspicuously. "Fair split all round. Grubstake. No pay. They're my terms." "Fifteen bucks, then."

Pete shrugged and turned away. "A minute, pardner." A little bearded man with small bright eyes and stockinged feet detained him. "You kin mush—take care of yourself?" "Ask 'em." Pete nodded to the local fellows around the stove.

"You still got all yer rights for this year, yer own and two proxies?" "Yes."

"There was four of us, but one's got dog bit an' a poisoned leg. We're all set to go, but we need a man. Fool all claims and split four ways. How about it—but I warn you we're mushers. We go."

"Where's your partners?" "Hey! Bill! Charlie!" Pete faced them silently, two close-mouthed fellows, very obviously of the brotherhood of the lean white trails. His long face, that seemed so sulky in repose, broke into its slow smile.

"Well, how about it, fellers. You willin'?" They looked at one another. Then the thin one spat and nodded, extending his hand.

"It's a go, brother!" As Pete went out into the moonlight and through the lane between the mountain huskies, his spirits rose.

Now he'd see. Fool he was not to have started with the first outfits that went tearing in as soon as the big news came out. What claim had Hanson on him, anyway? He'd been a fool. He needed just the jolt of knowing Hanson was seriously courting Madeleine to turn the trick. He'd be back before it was too late. Already uninvestigated claims were selling in Toronto for five thousand dollars. He'd have a fourth share in a block of thirty-six. Forty-five thousand, at that price! Suppose that was exaggerated.

Suppose he only got half, even ten thousand. All his troubles would be ended. They'd asked if he was a musher. Ha! He'd show 'em some travelling! His eyes shone at the thought—he loved his wilderness.

In rising enthusiasm he went over to the store where he had left his snowshoes. There had been a big snow yesterday, and the trail to his father's place was not yet solid.

As he nodded to Niven and picked up the "raquettes" from the corner, the door opened and Madeleine came in. Her face was round and sweet, cream and rose-dunneak, and the black curls under the fur toque were white with frost.

She smiled the quick smile of her Latin forebears.

"Why, Pete! I didn't know you were in town. How long . . ."

"This morning."

"But—why didn't you come up? You never missed before?"

"I went up . . ." he said slowly, and his eyes gleamed as his slow flush rose. "But I . . . thought I'd be intruding."

She crossed her brow a moment. Then she laughed.

"You big baby! Must I be all alone while you're away?"

He hung his head, then looked sharply up again.

"I'm going out again tomorrow. When . . . when I get back, you . . . look out!" His self-consciousness was always his undoing, and he found himself kicking the door open and planning out, followed by her laughter.

"Oh Pete! You're so funny . . ."

Outside big Hanson waited stolidly in his cutter, holding the restless horse. Pete hurried past without comment, down the steep slope, put on his snowshoes and headed across the lake to his father's house where the river entered the lake.

The meeting with Madeleine had heightened his excitement. Ah, there was a girl. She had been pleased to see him. His heart leaped at the memory of how her face had lighted up. The thought of his trip so soon dampened him a bit.

But what was the use of her liking him, if there was no possible chance of their marriage? She must have a home, at least the more necessities of things old Garnet had always given her. And he'd be back soon. Ten thousand, anyway; maybe twice as much . . .

The Lafitte house was large enough, and scrupulously kept. Pete's father had built it well, years ago when he was a young man before his legs had been crippled by a falling tree. They had all thanked their stars a thousand times for it. It was their own, though built on rocky soil which outcropped over more than half the whole ten acres, and had been their refuge and their anchorage. Pete had earned all the money that came into it for ten years, since his father's accident when Pete was sixteen, and the constant surgical care his father needed had continually throttled his efforts to get ahead. There was the time he could have gone in with Jardine on the tie-connector. Then he could have bought Hill's boat dirt cheap—it earned real money from the campers in the summer. But try as he could he had never been able to get his start.

The old man sat with his withered feet propped up on the stool that Pete had made, Pete's mother opposite him.

The white washed walls were fresh and bright, with "Custer's Last Stand" above the stove and lugubrious family portraits here and there. His mother's cherished china on the dresser, the sewing machine by the window and the ancient gramophone in the corner.

The old man laid down his paper, and his hand looked over his shoulder.

"Parker went through—hour ago. He's been back on Turkey Mountain. Says the snow there's fierce. You'll have plenty water this spring, Pete. I recollect last time the snow was that thick on Turkey Mountain y'ud almost drive the river without using the dam."

Pete pinched his mother's cheek as she smiled up at him, peeling off his mackinaw.

"Well, I ain't interested in no water. I'll drive no logs this spring."

"What d'ye mean, ye'll drive no logs? Has Hanson assigned? I knew the mill burnin' had hit him hard, but he told me he could stave 'em off till spring, for sure, and that a good winter's loggin' would set him square again."

Pete's long, gaunt face was dogged. "He ain't bust—yet. But I'm sick of kickin' my heels makin' nothin' but wages. I never had a chance before that I could take, and I'm mushin' in with three fellers to stake claims. There's money in the bank for you till I get back, if you're careful."

The old man shook his head decisively. "Ye can't do it Pete. Ye know he needs ye for the spring. There's no one here but you or me kin hope to drive that river. An' if Hanson hadn't taken you on this year he'd have got one of the Samson boys to boss it. But they've wither on Swift Creek and there ain't a man this side of Quebec good enough to drive this little old Mawnegan."

"Well, he can take his chance, like I've had to do all my life. What if he does bust. He—he's—they say he's boatin' that he'll marry Madeleine as soon as the logs are safe boomed in the spring. Well, let him drive 'em himself. I'm off to get some money. If he waits to boom this winter's out before he asks her, maybe he'll wait a durned long time."

At the girl's name the two old people exchanged understanding glances. His mother said:

"But, Pete, son, didn't you promise Hanson you'd drive the river if he took a chance and logged this winter, and didn't he make you foreman on account of that?"

"I'm only gettin' wages out of it. If Hanson gets on his feet an' makes a million, what'll I get? I've got to look after myself."

Pete slouched on the table corner, filling his pipe. His out-brown face was lowering, his eyes defiant.

Something in his silence told old man Lafitte that there was more in his son's irate than one of his periodical outbursts against inexorable circumstances.

He lifted round his withered legs and hitched his stool so that he could face him.

"Ye're serious, Pete? Ye're really goin' north before the break up?" "Yes, Dad. I'm going."

"But Hanson—"

"What's Hanson to me if he makes out this winter, what good'll that do me. An' it's the only chance I've ever had—ever shall have. Claims are sellin' in Toronto for five thousand, eight usen."

The old man bit his lip, then leaned forward, peering up into the lean-dark face of that scion of twenty voyagers.

"Want like you to look at things that way, Pete. I never did, and till this night you never did. Ye know Hanson wouldn't have logged 'less he had made certain of his drive. The Mawnegan's the worst blame crick between here and Nova Scotia. No ham river-man can drive her. You said you'd do it, and you set yer wages. He's countin' on ye. If ye quit I'll break him—but that ain't what I mean."

Ye word stands, don't it Pete, son?" Pete flared up. "You know dam' well it does! This is different. 'Twas only a casual deal. I had to work. There's no responsibility of mine."

"Ye say that, but in yer heart ye know. Ef ye went north with these new partners, and one of 'em quit in a blizzard, what would ye say of him?" Pete scowled in silence.

"So ye can't quit Hanson. Ye got ter see him through."

His mother, withered and bent but with still the great dark eyes, the high, strong features that had made the early beauty of Jeanne Lafitte, slipped up behind him, and her hand stole on his shoulder.

"No, son. An' ye won't lose. It's just life. Some way it will be made up to you."

The old man's gaunt hand gripped his knee. "Niver forget, son. There's only one thing can hurt a man an' that's to let himself down. How d'ye think ye'll feel, if ye do make a pile, knowin' ye've done what ye would call another man a yellin' dog for doin'?"

Pete gnawed his thumb. "I tell you I owe him nothing. It was just an ordinary deal, an' he's no claim on me. I've my own life to live, the one chance I'll ever have to get a start. There's other things too."

"No more. An' ye won't lose. It's just life. Some way it will be made up to you."

SCHOOL NOTES

School closes today for the Easter recess. Examinations have been in progress during the past week or ten days and the students are due for a relaxation period. In the majority of instances this rest is well earned. It is to be hoped that they will use the next week or ten days fitting themselves physically for the mental efforts that will begin again on Monday, April 16th. Parents will be well advised to let the students forget their books for this period and see that they obtain proper hours of sleep, nothing but good, substantial food (a few extra eggs are O.K.) and a fair amount of recreation daily. In the interest of your boys and girls, give this matter your attention. Needless to say, these practices should not end when the Easter holidays do, but should continue till midsummer, and then longer.

Some parents should realize that University and college students are frequently held under rigid disciplinary restrictions, their hours are set by college regulations and a minimum amount of daily exercise required. It is certainly within the power of parents to insist upon equally worthy requirements from their boys and girls. You are paying their bills and expenses while they are at school, and so are entitled to demand satisfactory returns.

School classes begin on Monday morning. Students returning on Tuesday or Wednesday will be severely handicapped from the start. Watch for the examination results shortly and if not satisfied with the boy's or girl's result, come and see up. Don't wait till next September.

ELKS ORGANIZE NEW LODGE AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul de Metis, Alta., March 31.—Monday evening, March 26, will go down in St. Paul history as one of its biggest nights. The occasion was the institution of St. Paul Lodge of Elks, when 70 charter applicants were initiated into the mysteries and beauties of the order.

Grand Organizer Miquelon is deserving of great credit when in less than three weeks he enrolled 70 of the leading citizens in the baby lodge—No. 194.

PROVINCE TO TEST TOBACCO CULTURE HERE

Tests of tobacco culture in Alberta will be made this season over a wide area, states H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta. The various varieties will be tested out for suitability to this climate and test plots will be seen at Oliver, Vermilion, Claresholm and Raymond. It is hoped to raise sufficient quantities that shipments may be made for factory tests in the manufacture of plug and other prepared tobaccos.

In the soil products show at Winnipeg and at other places exhibits of Alberta grown samples of the "fragrant weed" attracted wide attention. Interest in tobacco raising here has been growing rapidly.

WORST FLOODS IN HISTORY IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Calgary, March 31.—Big floods surpassing anything in the memory of old-timers have caused the breakdown of telegraph and telephone communications and done considerable damage in the district of Cessford. On account of washing the railway service has been abandoned. Berry Creek, south of Hanna, which enters the Red Deer river near Brooks, flooded, destroying a privately owned dam which was used to store a large body of water for irrigation purposes. The floods were caused by unusual warm weather which melted the snow in all the coulees and draws feeding Berry Creek. Water rose to an abnormal height, practically filling the valley from bank to bank.

RED DEER APPROVES 5-YEAR POWER DEAL

Red Deer, March 31.—At a special meeting called for the purpose, Red Deer city council passed a bylaw for the signing of a 5-year agreement with the Calgary Power company for the wholesale supply of electric energy. The meeting was held immediately after a public meeting, attended by about 60 taxpayers and addressed by Mayor Snell, Aldermen Johns, Hogg, Howlett, Bullock and Mitchell; W. B. Payne, city solicitor, and F. J. Robertson, general superintendent of the Calgary Power company. A few questions were asked on the bearing of some of the clauses in the contract, but there was no opposition, and the meeting passed unanimously a resolution endorsing the action of the council, moved by Messrs. W. J. Stephenson and H. Wilson.

The contract comes into effect as soon as the company is in a position to start supplying juice, but not later than October 31. The city will get power at about 3.5 cents and retail it themselves, using their present distribution system. The old steam plant, bought two years ago from the Western General Electric company, will be disposed of. Allowing for the retirement of the debenture indebtedness on this, for the street lighting, water pumping, erection of a water tower to allow the pumping to be done off peak, administration and other fixed charges, it is confidently asserted that the city could afford to retail it at 12 cents and still make a profit, but the general feeling is against any drastic revision of domestic rates. The council will probably lower rates gradually, so as to give the taxpayers the benefit rather than the tenant. The light rate was reduced this year from 20 to 18 cents.

The Ladies' Aid of First United church will hold their annual carnation tea on the Saturday preceding Mother's Day. Hot-house and paper carnations will be for sale.
